

Shaping our future together

Common Threads outcomes

Our business is made up of passionate people who really care about what we do but we're feeling more disconnected from each other, from our purpose and from the story of who we are.

'Common Threads' is the first step to implementing that change.

We've heard loud and clear the common themes and issues from you – and now have a clear vision of what's needed to better unite us.

Here's what you told us

We're losing sight of the bigger picture

Our culture is under pressure from growth

Good news doesn't travel

The group has no shared identity

We all want change. Here's what we're working towards

→ A place where the patient is never forgotten

→ A place where the big moments are celebrated

→ A place where every person feels essential

→ A place that feels like one entity

→ A place with a clear, human-centric mission

So, where next?
